STAN'S

FUN ACTIVITY BOOK

The background features a light blue sky with several black birds in flight on the left and a single white cloud on the right. Below the sky, there are stylized white clouds and a green-to-blue gradient representing water with light green ripples.

Stan the Penguin had a bit of a problem – his vision was all blurry! He wobbled and wiggled, often bumping into snowbanks and slipping on ice in Antarctica. But one day, Stan waddled over to the friendly eye care specialists at Stanton Optical. Now that Stan’s vision is crystal clear, he’s excited to take you on a super fun adventure!

Grab your crayons and join Stan as he discovers the wonders of the world with his new clear vision!

Did you Know?

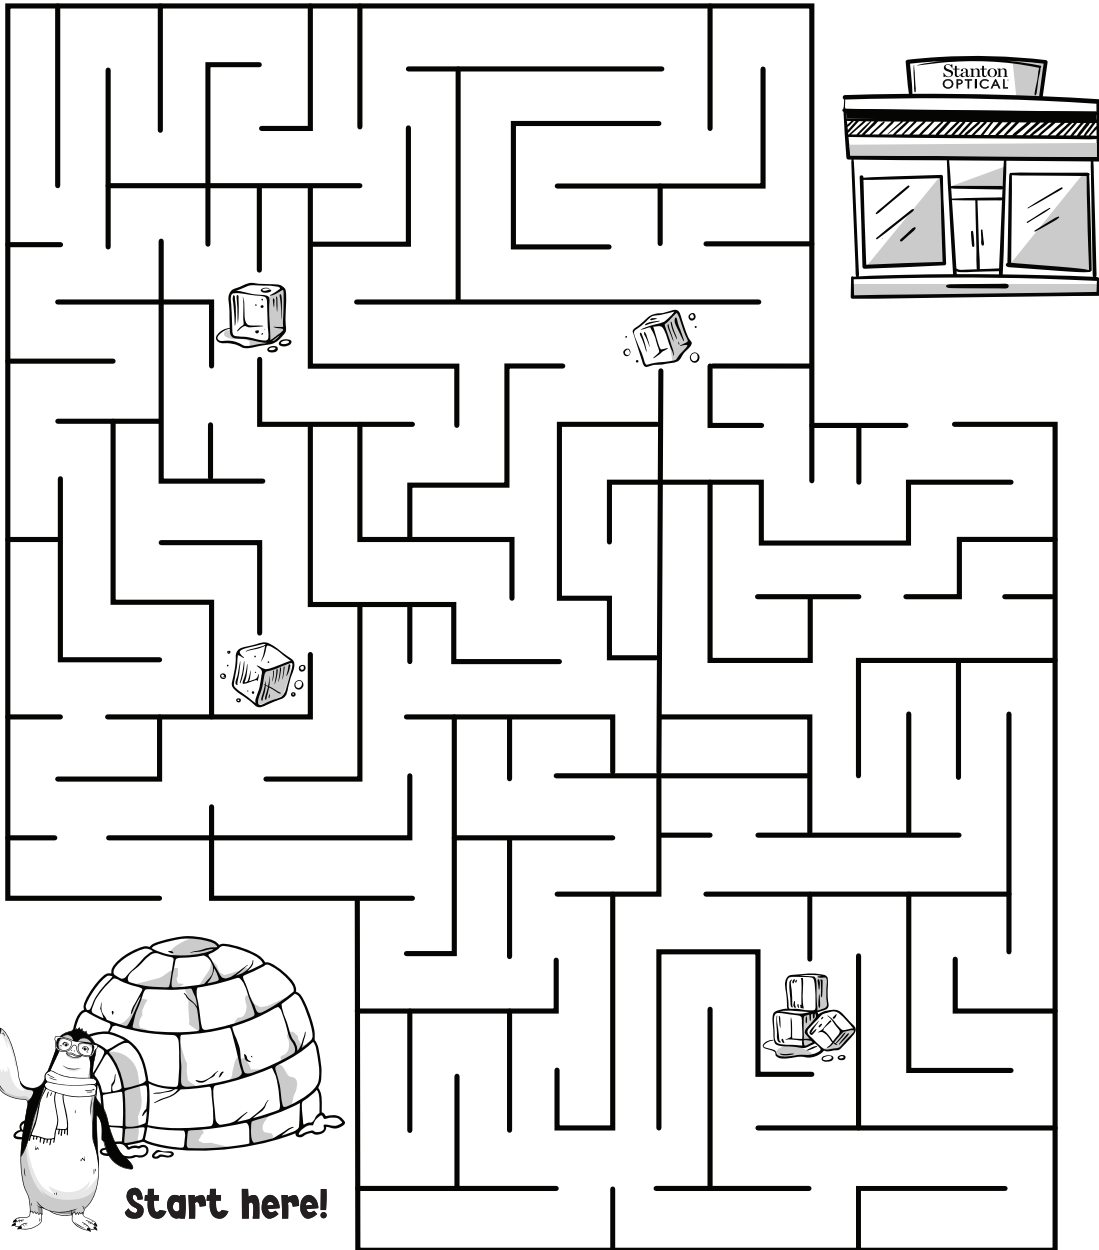

Your eyes can water when you smell something strong. That's because your tear ducts connect your eyes straight to your nose!

■ Color Stan taking a break at the beach

From the Igloo to Stanton Optical - Labyrinth

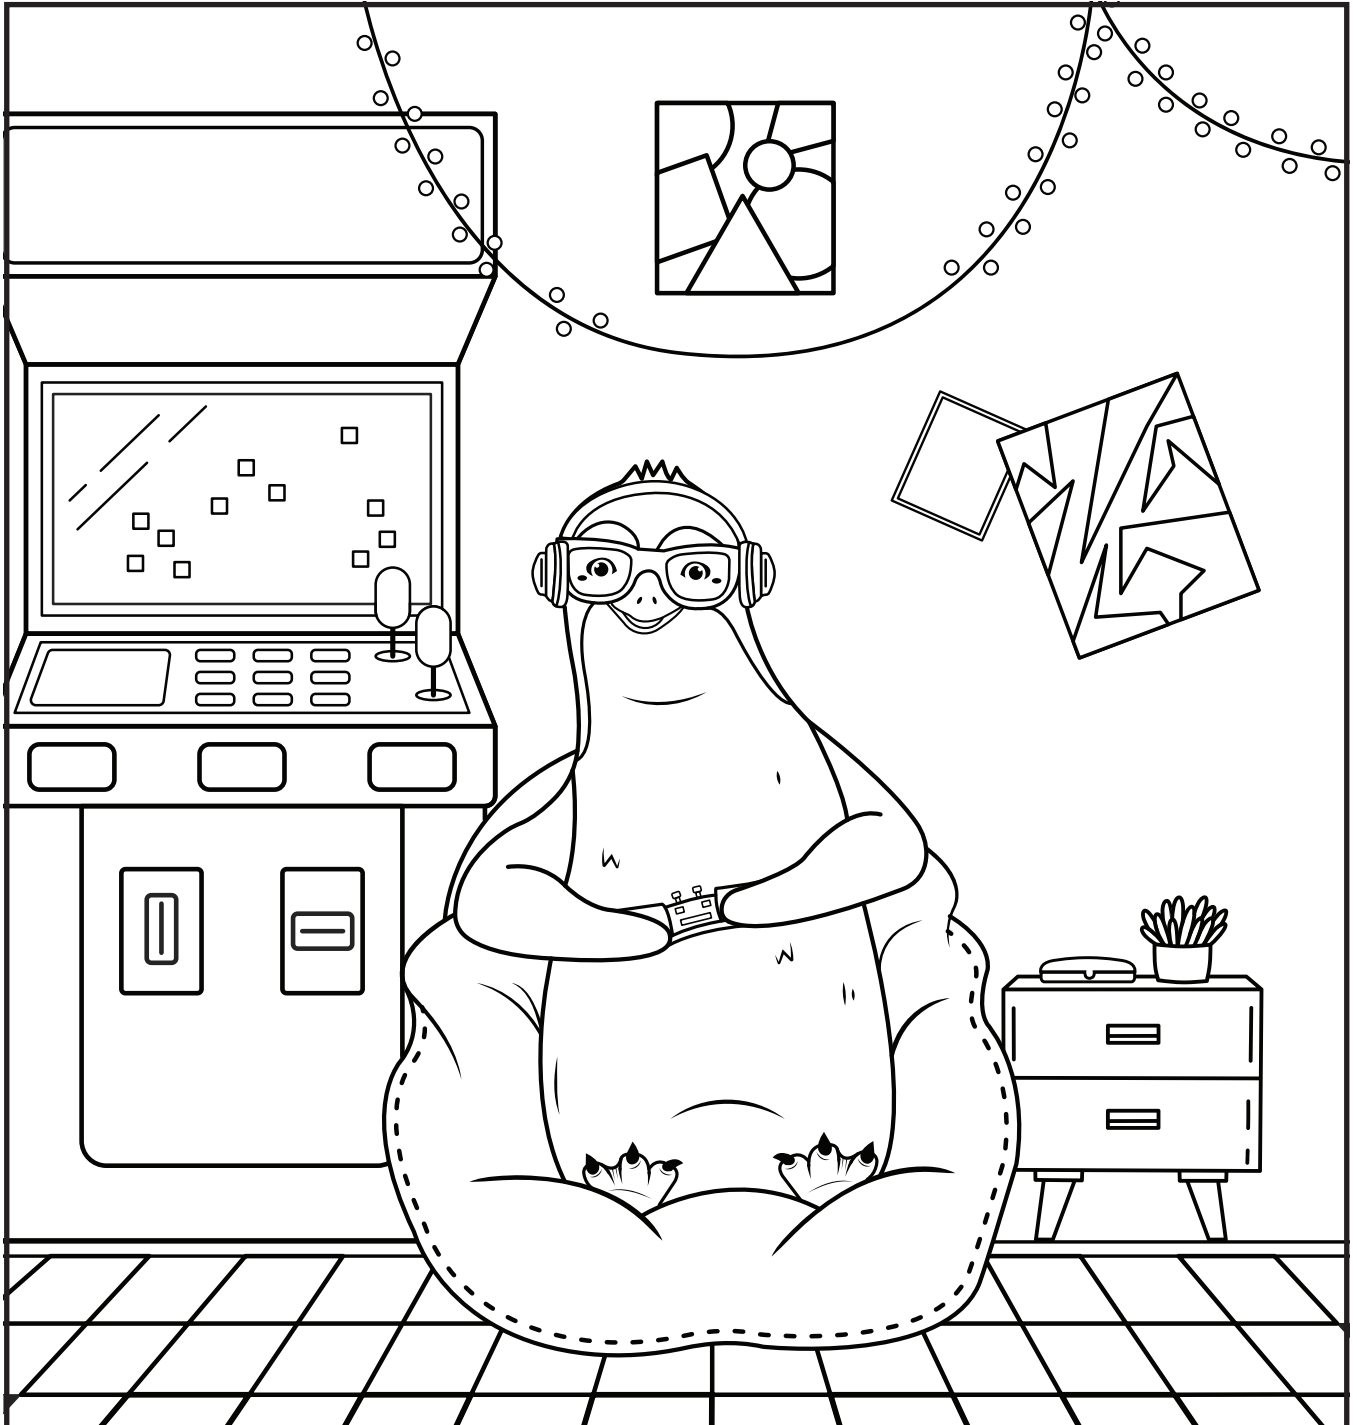

Help Stan trace his path from his chilly igloo home to Stanton Optical!

Did you Know?

Most birds can see four primary colors, but penguins can't see the color red. This helps them have better vision underwater.

■ Glasses are like superhero armor. They protect you from the sneaky "blue light" while gaming.

Optical Search - Word Finder

Uh oh, it seems like Stan needs help looking for words related to his eye care. See if you can spot them. The words might be up, down, backwards, and sideways, just don't get dizzy!

Did you Know?

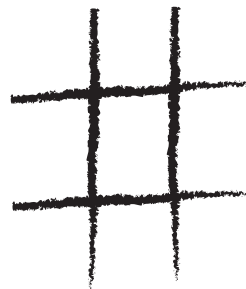

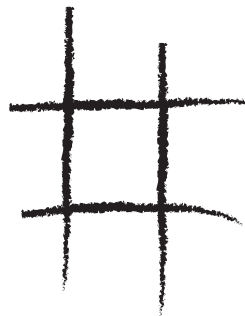

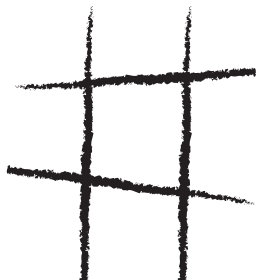

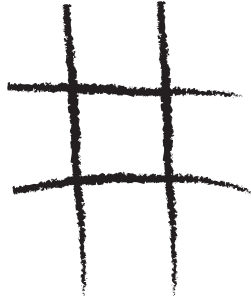

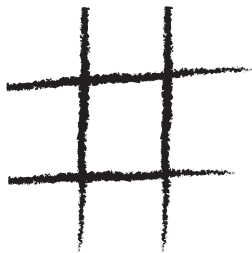

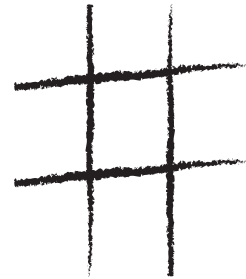

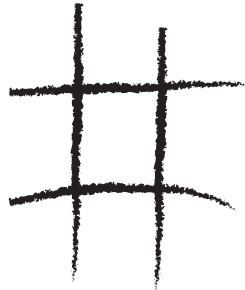

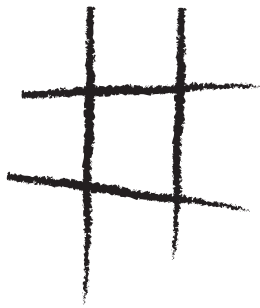

Humans blink over 10,000 times per day. Don't believe us? Ok, let's start counting 1...2...3...

■ Draw yourself next to Stan and join him for a hike.

Tic-Tac-Stan

Break the ice with a new friend and play a game of Tic-Tac-Stan by taking turns filling out blank spaces with Xs and Os.

Did you Know?

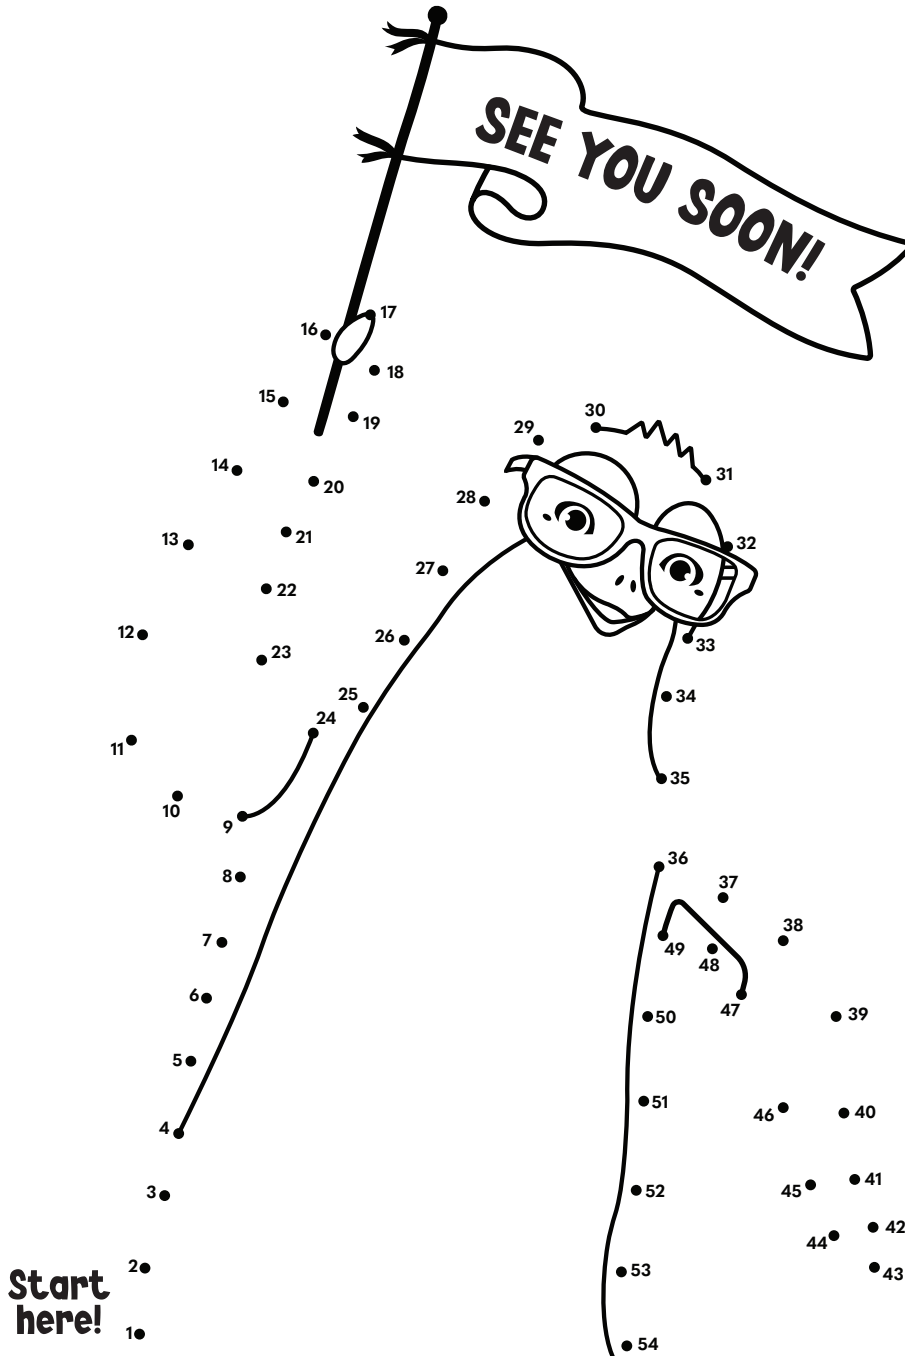

Just as you get taller the older you get; your eyes also grow with age!

■ Stan made it to a Stanton Optical Grand Opening!

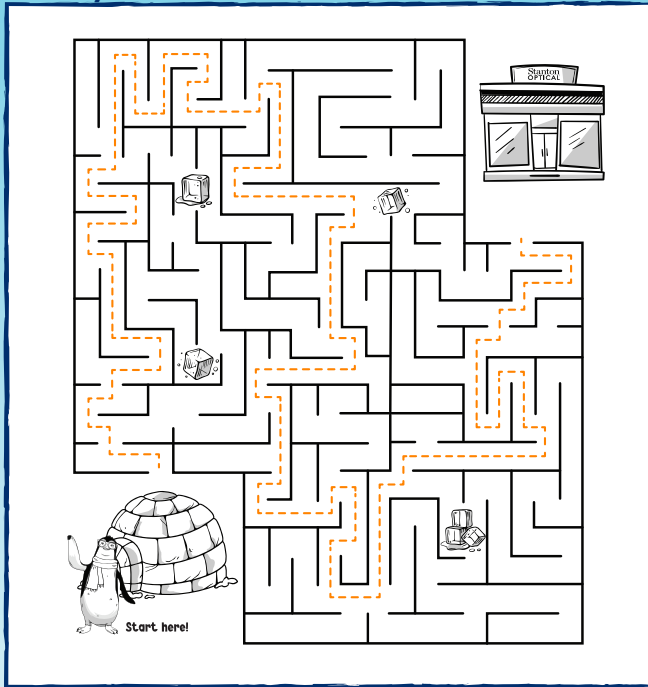

Connect-the-Dots

Stan's journey made a splash at Stanton Optical, making him our very first spokes-bird. Connect-the-dots to get a glimpse of his celebration.
